

February 23 to 25 in Milan, Italy

Myplant & Garden is on

This morning, after two years, the Fiera Milano opened its doors for the sixth edition of Myplant & Garden. The show is the main meeting point for the Italian industry attracting companies from all over Europe. This year, nearly 700 companies are exhibiting their products and services and, when looking at social media posts from participating companies in advance of the show, each and everyone is glad to be present at an in-person event again.

This year, FloralDaily will be present as well, making a photo report, gaining information about the Italian horticulture industry and what's on display. We will be strolling down the aisles with our camera on Thursday and Friday, so if you are exhibiting or visiting the fair, be ready to unsheathe your best smile!

For more information:
Myplant & Garden
myplantgarden.com

